The FBI Is The KGB For Democrats

The line about the KGB and Democrats appeared in the American Thinker on Sunday and is a scathingly accurate observation by Don Surber, a blogger. In thinking it might be a caption for a cartoon a check of “Images” listed some variations but no cartoon. For those old enough to recall network radio shows, there was “F.B.I. In Peace And War” as well as “This is Your FBI”. These ran from about 1944 into the early 1950s and featured its then highly regarded administrator J. Edgar Hoover and his field agents always solving domestic crime. They were there to help. And now the supposedly independent agency colludes with alien political forces in an attempt to overthrow a Constitutional Republic.

As many have observed over the centuries, America could only be defeated from within.

Standards of ethics and decency have been trashed as the FBI was corrupted into a tool of globalists dedicated to imposing one-party government.

Once.

A singular dedication to fighting crime has been twisted into protecting the Democrat’s double standard. The FBI has not been alone in its war against freedom. It’s been accompanied by the DOJ and CIA. Criminal evidence against the Clinton and Biden families continues to mount. Yet little is done. But in the contrived accusation about Russia assisting in Trump’s win, nefarious political operators in key government agencies joined the reckless mob.

Without attractive policies, the ad hominem attacks are upon Trump’s persona rather than upon his successful policies. Indeed, a very personalized witch hunt. The most intense since Moscow’s “Show Trials” in the late 1930s when prosecutor Vyshinsky boasted “Give me a man and I will find the crime”. Ambitious in pursuing the “nightmare of vile crimes”.

Some Democrats have threatened to investigate those who have supported Trump.

The shockingly deplorable part was when the Soviet Deep State encouraged children to inform on their own parents. Many of whom suffered a short and brutal life in the Gulag. While called “liberals” today, such in America are far from it. In advising children to inform statists that their parents are not wearing masks, it is back to the USSR. Contrasting mightily with “Junior G-Men” a radio show that inspired the “Junior G-Men’s Boys Club”.

A “law and order” movement that for a while in Canada and the US rivalled the Boy Scouts.

Back in the day, most admired business and feared big government. Of course, the most practical condition is that government fears the electorate. But nowadays government ambition is to keep the electorate in a state of fear. By contrived threats that only bureaucrats can relieve.

The scam has run too long.

And the latest opportunity to defend freedom, the Supreme Court abandoned responsibility. Naively thinking that authoritarians can be placated. Rather than adjudicate Constitutional offenses it rolled over so that the intrusion can continue. Thereby assisting those opposed to law and order.

Hysterias about bad weather and another influenza have been remarkable promotions used to control as many as possible. The latter gambit has shut down small business that typically employ some 70 percent of the workforce. Moreover, the double standard keeps big box stores open. Church assemblies are shut down, but rioters in Democrat cities are not. Unions insist that teachers stay at home and still be paid. Try that with your own business.

However, control freaks can't tolerate any limits to ambition, which disastrous excesses set up reform movements. This is supported by evidence back to Ancient Egypt when in severe hardships, the governing classes lived and promised well. Sometimes harvests were so poor that famine ensued, and the governing classes continued to live and promise well.

It went on until desperate for relief, ordinary folk overthrew iniquitous tyranny, forcing what have been called dynastic changes. These were profound and while creating an interregnum, groceries were more democratically distributed.

Let's call them benign popular uprisings and each has been provoked by the governing classes becoming, well, ungovernable. Like now, which if the globalist Left is successful its ambition to wreck a Constitutional Republic will force hardship and iniquities. Enough to inspire another uprising as a natural step towards reform.

Regrettably, it will be more disruptive than continuing the Trump reform through honest elections.

But if the past continues to guide, popular dissatisfactions will grow and eventually force justifiable reform of corruption at all levels of the bureaucracy, including the now sordid FBI. The KGB, or perhaps the Stasi for Democrats.

In November 1989, unarmed ordinary folk in East Germany overthrew an armed and murderous KGB and Stasi.

A remarkably successful popular uprising that can give hope and guidance to America, a hitherto freedom-instituted nation.

An unrelenting "No!" to all of the Left will by steps advance the reform.
